ago, Mississippi salt domes fit a threat to the health and welfare of Cook County residents.

State Attorney General Bill Allain has repeatedly stated his opposition and advocates a legal fight with the federal government to stop the DOE's plan.

The aldermen took no action on the request and referred Flint's proposed resolution to Lucien Gen, city attorney and Judge. Gen was directed by Mayor John Longo to study the resolution and offer recommendations at the next board meeting scheduled Sept. 1.

Flint said the county's aquifer (underground water supply) and Pearl radioactive contamination.

Over 1,000 people attended the casual backyard barbecue enjoying unusually cool August evening temperatures. The Washington D.C. officials generally chose not to express an opinion of any specific issue, but Lott endorsed President Ronald Reagan's recent decision to fire striking federal air traffic controllers. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Pass groomer offers dogs summer relief

By BRENT MACAY

G.G., a cockapoo, was brought into The Clip Joint on 119 East 2nd Street in Pass Christian at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Her long fur, a dirty blonde color, was a tangled mess as she nervously paced the floor examining a vacuum cleaner and large wheeled hair dryer on the hardwood floor of the grooming parlor.

She shifted a small rug under a bath tub which serves as a dip tank. The rug had a picture of a dog and the inscription "Have you smoothed your pooch today?"

G.G. looked a little confused.
Three other dogs, all poodles, were standing on a table looking out an office window which overlooks a small grassy yard. They jumped on the table as soon as their owner left them at the parlor.

"Being regular, they aren't nervous."
"I don't like to lock them up," Marion Langdon, dog groomer and owner of the Clip Joint, says about most of the dogs
she grooms. "I think it makes them

City services labeled 'ridiculous'

Bay annexed area residents complain

By BRENT MACAY

Residents of Bismarck Street and Mifflin Streets in Bay St. Louis advise a Bay Council meeting Monday to request their city fathers do something to increase services to that area. They complained current services are ridiculous and asked what is being done to provide sewer, water and gas to those homes.

Mr. Morris, a resident of Bismarck Street, explained that section of town was annexed in 1971. At that time Bay St. Louis agreed to provide water sewer, gas and paved streets, he said.

"Currently that area still has never had residential there have no city water gas or sewer."

Mr. Morris complained current services are ridiculous and asked what is being done to provide sewer, water and gas to
those homes.

Heita Smith, a property owner in the annexed area, said the city council had to be forced to request their city fathers for providing promised services.

"It would be nice if we could bring a class action suit against the city to force them to do what they said they would do," he said.

The family prefers donations to the Cursillo Movement in Southern Mississippian.

Troop.....

"Eagle Court of Honor" ceremonies were held during the celebration honoring Eagle Scout Sam Mason of Troop 204.

Russell Elliott was emcee for the festivities with J.D. (Big John) Rutherford giving a brief review of the history of Scout Troop 204 and American Legion Post No. 139.

Rutherford noted that Hurricane Camille in 1969 destroyed all troop records in addition to the American Legion's files.

In 1971 Dr. Laurent Dixon formed the scout troop sponsored by American Legion Post No. 139. Dr. Edward Anderson was the first scout master.

In 1972 most of the legatees were in military service and lacking manpower the troop moved to the Knights of Columbus hall until 1976. Some of the legion members helped with the scouts at the KC's. Post 139 took over the troop in 1976.

In 1980 the first Court of Honor was formed with Mark Gowan as scout master.

The Scout Troop has traveled all over the United States with the legion leaders (in such places as Stone Mountain, Disney World, Gatlinburg and many more).

With the help of the Boy Scouts of America, the troop camped out over 400 miles and attended about 20 weeks of summer camp.

Over the past year the troop has spent many hours working on projects for 50 different organizations.

more nervous."

Langdon, who has been grooming dogs and sometimes cats at her shop for almost two years, is a licensed member of the National Dog Groomers Association of America.

The slim strawberry blonde seems to have a certain abundance of energy as she moves about her small but neat grooming parlor.

She wheeled the industrial vacuum across the floor to vacuum a mound of fur left from her first customer, G.G., who was scheduled next.

While Langdon continues to vacuum, G.G. decided to relieve herself in the box.

Acting as if nothing unusual had happened, Langdon quickly cleaned up the mess.

"I don't believe in hitting the dogs," she said about G.G.'s rude behavior. "She's just nervous at all."

With a smooth motion and reassuring manner, Langdon begins vacuuming and reaches down to lift G.G. to the table. A collar attached to the wall is firmly secured around the dog's neck. G.G. submits easily.

To Langdon, G.G. is a ruler.

"I've been having problems with my back from picking up dogs," she says. "I had a herniated intervertebral disc the other day. He weighed 140 pounds."

With the electric clippers humming, Langdon begins on the back of G.G./Groomer's Grooming Center's newest dog. She uses the clippers to shave off a portion of the dog's coat. The dog remains perfectly still.

After the initial touch, two more snips from orange yarn were added to the dog's coat.

Langdon then begins to shave the dog's front legs. The dog remains perfectly still.

After the front legs are shaved, you can't convince people until they see the reaction. They are so much more comfortable."

As Langdon continues clipping, she notes the job is taking longer than usual.

"It's just like working with children.

It wears you out faster than anything."

Coming from Langdon, that statement is hard to believe. Before starting work at 10 a.m. each day in the office, she does roller skating and takes two of her oldest six dogs for a skate around Pass Christian.

G.G.'s clipping was finished and Langdon carried her to the dip tank.

Here she was washed in medicated shampoo, and doused with some dip to prevent fleas and ticks.

G.G. suffered admirably through the whole affair. She even seemed to enjoy the cool water sprayed over her as a final rinse.

Back on the grooming table, his fur was now dried and clipped with scissors.

The hair on top of G.G.'s head was shortened somewhat.

Her ears and tail fur were trimmed too and she remained the same length. Her tail was left shaggy too and her legs had been only partially clipped.

"I don't think it looks good to clip their legs," Langdon said.

She said she often does not clip the dog to the skin, but can leave three quarters of an inch of fur. In G.G.'s case this was impossible due to the number of ticks he had.

"I feed him pretty food, don't you think he deserves to look different?"

The shaggy dog was not more than an inch and a half inches off white.

Langdon then began to shave the dog's front legs again.

After the final touch, two more snips from orange yarn were added to the dog's coat.

We think it is an honor that our Library System has been chosen as one of six in the State of Mississippi to host a Folk Artist Residency Program during 1981-82.

The program which was developed by the Mississippi Arts Council in cooperation with the Mississippi Library Commission will give our local Folk Artists an opportunity to show their skills learned from their parents and grandparents.

We talked with Prima Wusack, director of the Hancock County Library System, Thursday and she reports she has already received several calls in regard to the program.

Paula Tadlock, Folk Arts Program director for the state is interested in finding as many local Folk Artists as possible in Hancock, according to Mrs. Wusack.

One craftsman we discussed was someone who still churns butter. Now we have helped do this chore when we were young, but we do not know anyone churning their own butter today.

If you churn your own butter or know someone who does, give Mrs. Wusack a call at 457-5292.

We know there are a lot of musicians around with special talents handed down to them, persons who make quilts, sing folk songs, play old instruments, shoe horses and we could go on and on.

If any of you have these talents, give our library a call.

We know we have one of the best library systems in the state. Let's have one of the best folk artists exhibits in the state.

The program for Hancock is planned for April, but local artists have to be selected and lined up now.

There will be two professional folklorists conducting the research in Hancock County. They are Betty Belanus, a PhD in folklore from Indiana University and Worth W. Long, a cultural historian from the Smithsonian Institute.

A lot of effort is being placed by the Mississippi Library System on this project, so let us all help.

We all have a tendency sometimes to put things off and it can get us in trouble.

We mention this, because many of us forget to have our inspection stickers renewed each year. If we are stopped by the police, it could cost us a few dollars.

It has been the practice of our sheriff for the past two years to set up road blocks about the county checking on license tags, drivers licenses and inspection stickers.

We understand this will again take place in September after Labor Day. We suggest everyone check and see if their vehicles are up to date, because we know a lot of violations have been found in previous years.

Just a little helpful advice for everyone.

We are still receiving comments on the new four-way stop sign on Main and Toulme Streets.

Everyone says they hope this will be the last change.

District Four Supervisor Sam Perrinhard's crew has been doing a fine job this week in clearing county owned property for additional parking for courthouse employees. Roger Dale Ladner's crews helped a couple of days and we are glad to see more room made, because parking does become a problem.

The Sea Coast Echo parking lot is also now being improved for parking. We kind of feel bad in with the county owning the property on either side and behind us.

We are going to get rid of our holes in our parking lot, especially since one official referred to them as wavepools.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN.

Wouldn't it be nice to have a clean city for our children to grow up in? Children learn by example, teach your child not to litter.

PROPOSING WORK PROGRAM—Explaining terms and conditions of a prisoner work program to eight Hancock County Jail inmates Monday afternoon is Albert Nease, Jr., Calvert, district attorney. Nease met with the men in Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson's office to select participants in a program providing prisoner labor free to the City of Bay St. Louis in return for reduction in the men's jail sentences. All of the inmates in the program are county residents and nonviolent felons. (Staff photo by Wayne Duncumb Jr.)

ALTER EGO—Actor Sandor Scott describes the role in which he plays in NBC-TV's new science-fiction series "Future Quest" as being that of a computer operator who can control the movements of his twin brother and delivers his lines and controls the movements of the Radio Shack home computer from a console situated off the set and out of the range of the cameras.

EVENING AT SESAME STREET—A new weekly television program, "Evening at Pooh," will be shown on NBC-TV's "Sesame Street" program with the late Arlene Dahl and cast members from "Sesame Street" can be seen on Sunday, August 16, at 7:30 p.m. Eastern time. University hot line aids in animal poisoning cases

The Gaines Dog Research Center of Waukegan, Ill., has contributed $1,000 to the University of Illinois Foundation to help maintain the Animal Toxicology Hotline established by the Foundation in 1976.

"The Animal Toxicology Hotline is an emergency service available to every dog owner," states Walter N. Chmel, Director of the Gaines Dog Research Center. "Of a total of 300 calls concerning actual or unrelated poisonings to the University of Illinois, 100 involve dogs. We believe supporting such an animal emergency service is in keeping with the Gaines tradition in caring for your dog and we hope individuals and organizations interested in dogs will follow our lead and make donations."

The Hotline offers diagnostic assistance to practicing veterinarians, county agricultural extension advisors, farmers and animal owners who call on 713-549-4700. The service is available seven days a week.

Contributions can be made by sending checks or money orders made out to the University of Illinois Foundation to Dr. William B. Buck, Director, Animal Toxicology Hotline, Division of Pharmacology and Toxicology, University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

Dog owners are urged to add the Hotline number to other emergency numbers.

Hinds Junior College slates do-it-yourself solar session

For several years, do-it-yourselfers in other areas of the country have been able to obtain a state-of-the-art solar water heating system for less than half the cost of a comparable commercially installed system simply by attending a weekend workshop and assembling a pre-purchased kit.

On August 28 and 29, interested Mississippians at last will have the same opportunity to learn how to do it.

The National Solar Water Heater Workshop Program which originated at Arizona State University in 1978, is supported by a grant from the Department of Energy and is already in operation in a number of states.

The Mississippi workshop, which is being sponsored jointly by the Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation and the University of Mississippi, and Hinds Junior College will consist of a three-hour lecture session on Friday evening and an eight-hour lecture session on Friday evening and an eight-hour lab session on Saturday.

The workshop will be held at the Hinds Junior College Raymond campus and the tuition, which includes refreshment breaks and lunch on Saturday, is $40.

The cost of the kit, which must be ordered in advance, is approximately $900, and an estimated $100-$150 will be required for additional materials to complete the installation of the system.

All costs, however, are eligible for a 40 percent federal tax credit for solar system installation, resulting in a net cost of $560.

Those wishing to participate should contact Dianne Ford, state solar coordinator for the Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation, at 961-4733.

Early enrollment is advised as space in the workshop is extremely limited.

AFL-CIO to mark Union Label Week

Local AFL-CIO and 100 national labor and community organizations across the country have designated the week of September 11-17, 1988, as National Union Label Week.

"The emblem of the labor movement—the union label—symbolizes the quality of goods and services produced by organized labor such as better working conditions, fair wages, increased job security, and a higher standard of living achieved through the process of collective bargaining," said Jack Perry of the South Central Labor Union, AFL-CIO in Hancock, Harrison, Stone, and Pearl River Counties.

The purpose of the Union Label is to keep America's economy healthy—and nationwide by many labor organizations affiliated with the AFL-CIO and the Union Label and Services Trade Department.

He added, "It's a week to accomplish

There's... on Answer!

by Norman
Vincent Peale

Something might happen...

Q. When my children were small, I got divorced and was alone for eight years. Then, I married a wonderful man. Now my son, 16, and daughter, 15, don't want to have a home. They say that I'm not there, and they lay down and watch TV or sleep. I do baby-sitting, and it is not easy to take care of five babies every day. My daughter is also very jealous. I cannot even get near my husband because she wants him all the time.

A. I think all of us in this life have to take ourselves as we are: big nose or small nose, big ears or little ears, tall or short.

I have had questions like this from tall women who are embarrassed by their height. So, our suggestion for you is that you make your mind and spirit as attractive as possible will love you. And, they will do. They will admire you for who you are.

You cannot be taller physically, but you can be tall mentally and spiritually.

MISSISSIPPI MARKET NEWS

AG MARKETING TIPS

Compiled by Marketing Specialists Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

SOYBEAN SITUATION: A strong dollar overseas and high interest rates at home continue to dominate the soybean market. The market continues to decline.

OUTLOOK: The Aug. 12 Crop Report will be important for the grain market. Recent supply-demand estimates were bearish. The June U.S. Department of Agriculture harvest estimates indicated farmers will harvest 1 percent fewer acres than last year. It will take a national average yield of 30 bushels an acre to produce a 2 billion bushel crop.

Marketing Specialist Truet Burklin said any figure less than the 2 billion will be bullish to bean prices.

"It is hot and dry and there are a lot of late bean acres. These beans not only will be susceptible to lower yields, but to frost damage also," Burklin said. "Weather will be an important factor in the Aug. 12 Crop Report."

RICE SITUATION: Rice crops in Mississippi are in good condition. New crop prices and sales are holding well.

OUTLOOK: Current crop estimates forecast a record crop for rice that will possibly be 16 percent larger than it was last year.

WHEAT SITUATION: Supply-demand estimates in July placed the 1961 crop at a record 2.6 billion bushels or 19 percent larger than last year. The estimate also increased 1961 carryover to 991 million bushels and 1962 carryover to 1,088 million bushels.

OUTLOOK: "Adverse weather conditions in Russia, India and China could cause one or more of these countries to buy a sizeable volume of U.S. wheat," said Marketing Specialist Truet Burklin. "If this should happen, prices will improve significantly."

COTTON SITUATION: Cotton demand is causing concern. Cloth-producing industries simply are not using the fiber. Weekly export sales are at a four-year low, and monthly domestic consumption has experienced two consecutive months of record low consumption.

"The potential techniques really that began developing in late July appears to have run out of steam," said Marketing Specialist Dr. O. A. Cleveland. "Cyclical information suggests that, without a rally by early August, the market will work its way to the low 70-cent level or below."

OUTLOOK: Dr. Cleveland said, that under present economic conditions, consumer demand for cotton should not be expected to show significant improvement for six to nine months.

A cold storage inventory report released in late July reported 116.4 million pounds of frozen pork belly stocks and the highest level of total pork stocks since 1971.

CONSUMERS: "They've bought the quantities of pork needed to stimulate pork and hog prices to the levels predicted by most analysts," said Marketing Specialist John Wilson. "Retailers and packers have backed off buying pork and hogs in anticipation of larger supplies."

OUTLOOK: Wilson said increased slaughter levels are expected to keep cash hog prices trading in the current range well into August.

"Most analysts feel that hog prices will bottom out in the high $40 level and that we will see strength in prices as we go into early fall," Wilson said.

ADVISORY: "It would consider any return to the 70-80 cent mark as a pricing opportunity for 25 to 50 percent of a crop," Dr. Cleveland said. "Otherwise, be prepared to delay pricing until next March or beyond. However, producers should consider locking in a basis as the spread should be expected to widen after harvest."

BEEF SITUATION: Cudrums have characterized the beef market with price levels trending lower. Most feedlots are selling cattle ahead of schedule. Supplies of fed cattle are increasing because of heavier placement last spring. Prices for stocker and feeder cattle have deteriorated even more than other classes of livestock and are lower now than any time since 1973.

OUTLOOK: "The industry can continue the practice of selling cattle as they become ready; most analysts agree that prices should not drop below the current level," said Marketing Specialist John Wilson. "If feedlot remain current through August, many feel price improvement is likely by late September or early October as supplies of fed cattle begin to decline somewhat."

HOG SITUATION: Hog markets have fallen under the same deflationary market conditions as beef. Bacon and overall fresh pork demand has been disappointing this

STOP INSECTS

The days of farmers shooting a blast of insecticide at every insect in sight fortunately are a thing of the past. Today's farmers relies on more sophisticated ways to stop insect pests that compete for crop yields.

One requires more soybean farmers are taking advantage of is natural diseases which kill the insects without use of insecticides. In mid to late season, these natural predators — fungi, bacteria and viruses — can play a big part in controlling insects.

RUSSIA REMAINS

'BEARISH'

A full leaf canopy, plus certain environmental conditions, apparently produces a climate that favors development of insect diseases. Many times, the disease will control insects like armyworms, velvetbean caterpillar, green cloverworm and loopers.

If you see dead worms and haven't used an insecticide recently, that's a good tip-off diseases are active in the insect population. The dead worms may have a whitish, mold-like growth on their bodies, a black color with bodies filled with fluid, or they may look almost normal.

The presence of diseased worms means that insects are being controlled naturally. If you find diseased worms, hold off insecticide treatment for a few days. It may be that the disease will spread to a level where it controls insects for you.

WATCH FOR TICKS

There are larger than normal outbreak in the tick population this year. We need to take special note of this, because ticks are carriers of potentially fatal Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Only a very small percentage of the total tick population is infected with the disease, and the fatality rate is very low for persons who contract spotted fever. But the fact remains that already three deaths in the state this year have been attributed to the fever.

Your best bet to avoid problems with ticks, and possible spotted fever, is to keep your lawn and garden free of grass and brush. John Frear, a division manager of Heidelberg Commodity Services, says, "You also may want to install fences around your yard to keep out dogs and other animals that may be infested with ticks."

Insecticides will also do a good job of controlling ticks, provided you do a thorough job of spraying. Several insecticides are recommended. Contact the County Extension Office for name and rates.

The scenario has a familiar ring to it for U.S. soybean growers. They are still winning from losses suffered when Gerald Ford imposed an embargo on soybeans a few years ago causing Japan, our biggest customer, to go to Brazil in search of soybeans.

Producers there got busy and now Brazil is the United States' leading competitor for soybeans. The Brazilian spring-harvested crop competes heavily for markets and holds down U.S. prices.

So while the international market is not wanting our grain as in earlier times, we have started playing games with it. 1981 finds U.S. wheat harvesting the largest crop ever, the record crop.

John Frear, a division manager of Heidelberg Commodity Services, says, "You also may want to install fences around your yard to keep out dogs and other animals that may be infested with ticks."

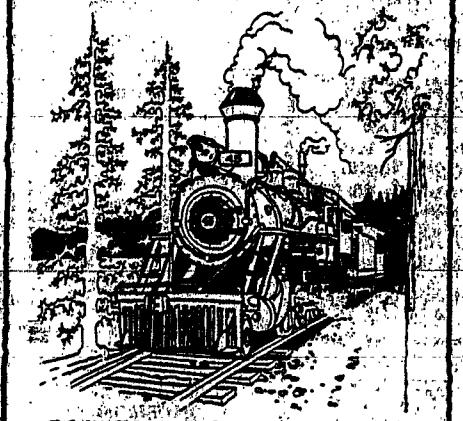

Argentina is "extremely happy" with what is going on. He described a recent visit of an Argentinian in his office who told him that farmers in his country are planting wheat like crazy there right now. They know they have a market and they are producing for it.

The scenario has a familiar ring to it for U.S. soybean growers. They are still winning from losses suffered when Gerald Ford imposed an embargo on soybeans a few years ago causing Japan, our biggest customer, to go to Brazil in search of soybeans.

Crying for the farmers won't help a thing, but it would help for politics and international trade to be separated for everybody's sake.

Diamond
pond

By MAYOR DUCOMBE
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Local communities are now pondering advantages and disadvantages of proposed water system.

Public Works Director
for Memphis, Tennessee, Diamondhead Corp.—a contracting company—will present the club house, golf course and swimming pool, providing to the Diamondhead Corp. and Property Owners
by June 1st, 1960.

Thomas J. O'Leary, new president Tuesday said Diamond Utilities Co. will retain ownership of community's water and ice operations.

"Only streets, drainage, a fire protection and public country roads are to be included in the franchise," he said. "It belong to the property owner."

Heifer reported the size control of the property.
Some members live here, but are scattered throughout the nation.

All property owners are members.

Ed Sowell, president of Edward Community Association consists of more than 100 Diamond-head families and associations.

Star

By ROBERT WATSON
A 17-year-old boy was charged Sunday with the shooting death of his brother, according to police.
The boy, identified as James L. Watson, was charged with first-degree murder and was held without bail.
He was accused of killing his brother because he was jealous of the boy's girlfriend.
